

New Evidence of Business Upturn Seen Developing

E. WILLIAM FERRIS
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Further evidence of improving business came to light last week. The trend now is as unmistakably up as it was down at this time a year ago.

Whether the current move is merely a rally in a long term decline, or truly the beginning of another cyclical upturn, is still unknown. International developments strongly suggest heavy government defense expenditures and additional inflationary price rises.

The entry of American troops into Lebanon and British troops into Jordan quite naturally makes many Americans fearful of another Korea. Actually, no fighting has as yet occurred, but these international events helped produce dramatic activity in the market place.

Stocks rose to new highs for the year in active trading. A feature was the relative strength of securities in such cyclical industries as steel, copper and rails. Conversely, utilities and gold mining shares, usually regarded as "defensive" investment areas during recessionary periods, lagged.

Late Friday the Federal Reserve Board said it would buy government bonds to stabilize the market, which has been dropping sharply.

The volatile commodity markets boomed, a fact about which purchasing agents of corporations can hardly be unaware. Rises in these market prices can change a lot of thinking about inventories. Both domestic and international commodities advanced—soybeans as well as copper, corn as well as wool.

There were other indications of price firmness. Both wholesale and retail gasoline quotations went up in some areas. The largest producer of copper—Kennebec—hiked the price of the red metal. Steel scrap prices rose in Chicago, a good indication of quickening demand for steel.

More money is going into public hands. Personal income rose in June, largely because of an upturn in wage and salary payments. Manufacturing payrolls advanced for the second straight month after 10 months of decline. Industrial production also rose in June for the second straight month.

Major indices are, of course, well under a year ago. Steel production, electricity output, crude oil output, coal production, freight carloadings, bank clearings—all these are below the same date in 1958. Yet it is the trend which is important, not the absolute position.

And in the case of each of these significant weekly business barometers there had been an upturn from the year's lows.

Briefly over the business scene: More people want to get wet: Chemical Week, a trade magazine, says there are over 100,000 private pools in the U. S. now compared with 2,500 only 10 years ago... Like to eat?... More beef is on the way as the number of cattle on feed July 1 was 16 per cent higher than a year ago.

New York's Hotel Edison has ended a three month trial period of using sack dress uniforms on its waitresses... Seems some waitresses got so upset over customer criticism that they mixed up the orders.

Stock sales in the latest week numbered 15,415,140 shares compared with 12,510,235 in the previous week and 11,121,870 a year ago.

Bond sales had a par value of $27,549,000 in the latest week against $23,866,500 the previous week and $19,245,400 a year ago.

SEARCH FOR WEAPONS—Greek Cypriot farmers in Avghorou are searched by British soldiers as they return from their fields, following a battle between troops and villagers. Two persons were killed and 38 others, including 22 soldiers, were hurt. Meanwhile, two British guards in Famagusta were killed and authorities immediately clamped a curfew on the town.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I've just finished reading some responses you had to a teen age boy's defense of necking. The majority vote seems to be against it. Such was my own attitude before marriage. I was saving myself for the husband and family I hoped to have one day.

Well, I have a very wonderful husband. And two beautiful children—a son, 20 months old, and a daughter, four months old—who are the "before" and "after" of a tragic experience. Meanwhile my theories of love have been profoundly shaken.

Last year, when my husband was stationed in Germany for a year, he fell in love with a woman who seems to me to personify the typical European woman. When Tony wrote me about her, I borrowed money and flew to Germany.

I made it a point to study the behavior of these women who "make a man feel like a man" in their company. They seem to be very self-aware, constantly watching for their own effect upon the man, and upon all other men in sight.

American women are more interested in enjoying themselves, and if they wish to impress, it is by showing good taste in their appearance and choice of companions. We don't set out to dazzle a man with our desire to possess him physically—even though most of us, at one time or another, have felt the desire.

The European woman most popular with, most appealing to, American males over there are those we most often describe as "falling all over the man." My husband and other boys I've known ridicule that sort of thing at home. They regard it as romantic foolery—for the birds—in the USA. But in Europe, they seem to base all their relations upon it. There, if a woman sees a man who appeals to her, she lets him know—in no uncertain terms—that she is available and wants to please him.

I am much concerned about this thing. It almost wrecked my marriage and changed a perfectly good young man into a cheap Don Juan—which indicates its power, a power that most young people aren't able to cope with.

P.Y.

DEAR P.Y.: As I get the picture, the difference between European versus American love is the difference between the future and the past of the evolutionary process. The man-woman relationship in America is associated with something ahead in the providential scroll of human potentials. The European brand is much closer to the ancient past.

Then why do good American husbands, previously content with their comradely American wives, abruptly lose their heads over European Lorelei? The reason is obvious.

Thoroughly conditioned to regard man as her master and adversary, to be bested by sex cunning, therefore, Lorelei artfully employs primitive come-hither to get him eating out of her hand. She conjures him back to a primordial pitch of togetherness—to a sex-dugged state of mindless ease, wherein the hoodwinked male feels himself worshipped as a pagan god. In this state, his capacity to "keep his head" is overwhelmed by the unleashing, in his unconscious, of chaotic primal selfishness.

Perhaps if the American man were better oriented to his own depths, in terms of awareness of "the human story," and less preoccupied with materialist pursuits in his homeland, he'd be more immune to the siren song. In any case, if you've fetched Tony back from that abyss, you are doing fine, in pitting your worth against Lorelei's wiles.

Ohio Legion Plans Powwow Next Summer in Cleveland

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's American Legionnaires have left Columbus with something to remember and given Cleveland something to look forward to.

Columbus, of course, was the site of the 40th annual state convention this year. It opened Wednesday and closed Sunday with a long and colorful parade that moved across the downtown district for more than two hours. More than 60,000 persons watched it.

One of the last things the legionnaires did before hurrying off to assemble for the final parade was to choose Cleveland as next year's convention site.

They also elected Herman D. Devor of Greenville, an Air Force veteran of World War II, as state commander. He succeeds Merle F. Brady of Van Wert, who becomes an alternate to the national executive committee.

Others elected are Mylio S. Kraja of Youngstown (World War II veteran), first vice-commander; Alec J. Blair of Jackson (World War II), second vice-commander; Michael Austin of Columbus (World War I), treasurer; The Rev. W. R. Fauser of St. Marys (World War II), chaplain, and Edward J. Skienicka of Cleveland (World War I), Ohio's national executive committee member.

Howard C. Kingdom of Conneaut told the convention he will stand for nomination as national legion commander at the national convention in Chicago Sept. 1-4.

Trophies went to Lake Post 737 of Lake Milton (Mahoning County) for community service and to Euclid Post 343 for legion activities. The First District, commanded by Barton Ford of Wauseon received the trophy for service to veterans.

Awards for membership achievements went to West Mansfield Post 603, Columbus Southway Post 144, Lancaster Fairfield Post 11, and South-Central Ohio Eighth District.

Among the 3,000 participants in parade competition, the following were judged best: drum and bugle corps—Bellefontaine Post 173; color guard—Bellefontaine; band—Salem; drill team—Delta Post 373; junior band—Canfield; junior marching group—Springfield Post 6; drum major—Robert Rank of Canton, and drum majorette—Carolyn Lewis of Salem.

Times-Star Sells Out to Scripps Chain

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Times-Star, a daily newspaper with roots that go back nearly 120 years, has published for the last time.

The E. W. Scripps Co. bought the afternoon newspaper Sunday and merged it with its competitor, the Cincinnati Post.

The combined paper, to be called the Cincinnati Post-Times Star, will publish for the first time today.

Purchase price was not disclosed.

The move gives Scripps—parent firm of Scripps-Howard Newspapers—full control of daily newspapers here.

Would-Be Ohio Senator Cites His Interests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Internal and international problems facing the nation must be the concern of Ohioans in the U. S. Senate, says a man who wants the job.

Talking to the Ohio State Council of Machinists here Sunday, Stephen M. Young, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, promised to be active in trying to solve the problems of inflation, recession and foreign policy.

Young said he favored extension of unemployment compensation benefits and added: "I will take action to control inflation immediately upon becoming your U. S. senator."

Attacking the "vacillating and fluctuating policies" of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, he continued:

"There can be no appeasement of Communist dictators of the Soviet Union. We must regain leadership of the free nations of the world."

Young also attacked what he called the negative voting record of his Republican opponent, Sen. John W. Bricker.

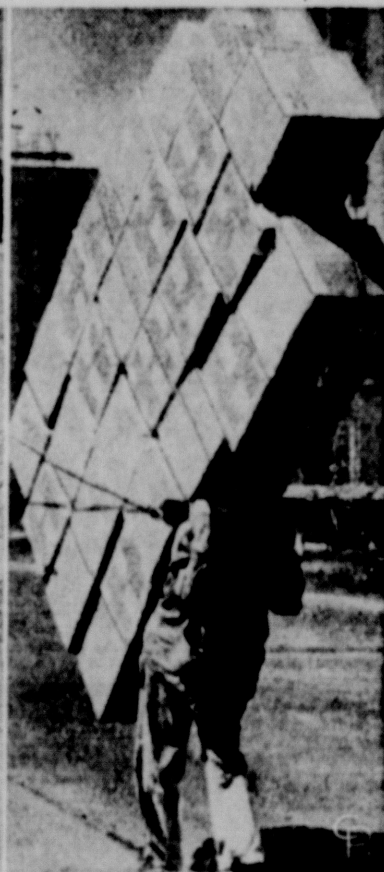

of the Cincinnati Enquirer, only morning newspaper here.

Robert H. Fergus, publisher of the Enquirer, said, "The two papers will operate separately and independently, both editorially and in the business office, as the Enquirer has in the past."

David S. Ingalls, publisher of the Times-Star, sent telegrams to each of 649 employees saying their jobs had ended as of Saturday.

Today's Mexico City porter looks trim, business-like in his khaki uniform.

The heavily laden porters of yesterday, like this one, are disappearing.

Easier Life Is in Making For Mexico's Working Men

By EMIL ZUBRYN
Central Press Association
Correspondent

MEXICO CITY — A radical change has come into the lives of Mexico's "men of burden" who move heavy goods through the streets of the city.

By decree of the city authorities, the "cargadores" (porters) now have clean khaki uniforms and wheelbarrows to help them move heavy loads.

So yet another typical Mexican sight for tourists is disappearing. In the past, the porters, a picturesque breed, were the object of curious attention by tourists as they shuffled along, stooped almost to street level by the heavy burdens on their backs.

In few parts of the world do men still act as beasts of burden. Today in Mexico the porters are no longer looked down upon by their worker confreres. Not only have their conditions improved in a physical sense—making it easier for them to shuttle cargo from point to point—but they have been all embraced as full-fledged union members.

Affected are 2,780 men, authorized by the department of labor to carry on their trade. Apart from union cards, they have city credentials which permit them to carry their burdens throughout the city's streets. There are about 1,000 sporadic workers, without credentials, who do similar work.

There are 1,775 "cargadores" who move fruit, produce, pottery, etc., within and into the La Merced, La Lagunilla and other markets.

The "canasteros" (basket carriers), 615 of them, are youngsters ranging from no more than 5 or 6 to boys of 14 or 15, who aid housewives by carrying their market baskets.

Finally, the "estibadores" (stevedores). These are not dock workers, but unloaders of heavy cargo from trucks. There are 390 in this category.

The porter's union is about 14 years old, but only recently have they signed up all members, except for the sporadic free lance workers who do the heavy work between regular jobs.

Average wage for the workers has run from 4 or 5 pesos (32 to 40 cents) earned by youths carrying market baskets, to approximately 25 pesos ($2) by handlers of heavy crates. To earn this top scale, a porter has to move about three tons of merchandise in one day.

Now, with their two khaki uniforms (gifts of the city government), and 500 wheelbarrows and handcarts (with more promised in the months ahead), the porters can expect approximately a 50 per cent increase in their take home pay.

The union is also going to acquire seven large houses where porters will have rooms to rest in between jobs; shower baths, and a general kitchen. All this luxury to cost no more than three pesos (24 cents) a day as compared with the average double of this spent for food and a place to rest weary feet for an hour or two before taking up the task of moving merchandise again.

Tourists may no longer have "quaint" pictures to shoot and take home, showing life in a "backward" Mexico. However, the porters of this city have a new pride in their status as uniformed workers in the transportation of packages by hand truck—instead of on their backs!

Food Service License Means Safe Eating

Traveling in Ohio during July and August? Look for the light green food service license when choosing a restaurant.

In offering this advice to Pickaway County residents, Dr. Frank Moore, County Health Commissioner, added, "Eating place operators who are sincere in their efforts at good sanitation, display their license proudly in a conspicuous place."

The license indicates that the eating place is under sanitary inspection by the local health department.

Before a license is issued, the sanitarian checks such practices as food handling; refrigeration of foods, especially perishables; dishwashing; food storage; and handwashing and toilet facilities.

"PERSONALLY, I eat in places where the license occupies an honored place," the Health Commissioner confided.

"The operator is obviously proud of his license; he wants everyone to know he's earned it. The public, also, has the feeling that the operator is carrying out good sanitary practices as standard procedure."

Inspection and issuing of food service licenses are in compliance with the state food service law.

A deck of playing cards is much like the calendar. The 12 face cards represent the 12 months; the 32 cards in the deck equal the 32 weeks in the year. And the sum of all the cards in deck (counting Jack as 11, Queens as 12, King as 13 (plus a Joker) totals 365 days.

Italy Cuts Down on Siestas

The late and unlamented Benito Mussolini was much admired in some circles because he made the trains run on time. Anybody who could do that in the atmosphere of sunny Italy surely had something.

But later developments bore out the Cassandra warnings of "impractical theorists" who argued that freedom is too high a price to pay for efficient train schedules.

Today Amintore Fanfani, the new Italian premier, is determined to put in effect another innovation which even Mussolini never tried—and without sacrificing freedom. He has ordered all government employees to cut their siestas to two hours!

The curse of Italy, he says, has been immobilismo. No longer shall government operations be immobilized by a working day that starts at 10 or 10:30, with three or four hours out for lunch-cum-siesta, followed by lolling in the office until long after dark.

Premier Fanfani is from Milan, where efficiency is respected. He is also an avowed enemy of the political corruption, favoritism, and nepotism which are standard practice in Italy—as they have always been in countries where poverty and unemployment are widespread. Eliminating corruption, Fanfani hopes, will make it easier to combat tax-dodging, another curse of the Italian government.

Ten years ago the problems of tax-dodging and corruption existed, along with prolonged siestas, but Italy had more serious problems. It was touch-and-go whether she would fall into the clutching hands of the communists. Unemployment and grinding poverty were endemic.

Today, thanks to U. S. aid and Italian bootstrap-lifting, conditions are better. Italy still isn't a rich country, but conditions have improved enormously. If there has been little Italian news in the papers recently, it is because no news is good news. Italy's problems are less acute than formerly.

If Italians are still poorer than Frenchmen, they are less plagued by recurrent crises. If they could improve their lot, despite siestas that last most of the afternoon, what may not be possible if Signor Fanfani succeeds in restricting daily dozes on government salaries to a mere two hours?

National Guard Units Cut

The Army, which ran into trouble with its plan to eliminate outright a number of National Guard divisions, is going to try to achieve its objective by another route. It will abolish no division.

The Army instead plans to reshape all 27 of the present National Guard divisions into pentomic outfits, geared for modern atomic warfare. But in the process it will drastically chop the manpower in 16 of the 27 divisions. This will reduce total guard strength by 40,000 to 360,000.

On that point the controversy begins. Undoubtedly, the major reason for the change is the desperate need of the Department of Defense to cut its costs somewhere to keep the budget from zooming indefinitely. National Guard units would be useless in a swiftly-ended atomic war. But they would be as useful as ever in providing the trained men for a "broken-backed" war. And without doubt they are cheaper to maintain than full-time soldiers.

30 Hours Looking at Mirror

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That someone has estimated women use more than 30 hours a year looking at mirrors and four hours a year powdering their nose. But no woman really counts this as lost time.

That America's annual fish harvest amounts to five billion pounds.

That when male twins reach the draft age in Argentina, only one is required to enter military service.

That Irwin H. Kramer of the Hotel Edison has his seasonal sign on his desk: "You won't complain so much about the hot weather if you are snowed under with work."

That if you want a new taste treat, here's an old Welsh recipe for preparing seaweed: "Boil gently, but do not overcook or else all the flavor will be lost. Mix with vinegar or lemon juice, a few drops of olive oil, pepper and salt, and serve cold on toast." After two servings of seaweed, your kids will be glad to eat spinach.

That some four million rugged Americans still take snuff. They six alcoholics is a woman.

That the U.S. male is getting larger. A quarter century ago the average man wore a size 38 suit. Today a size 41 fits him a little tightly.

That doctors now can identify 47 different kinds of headaches.

That singer Sal Mineo isn't old enough to vote, but he's just bought a $200,000 house where he will live with his parents, two brothers and a sister. Sometimes it pays to give your kids music lessons.

That bread becomes stale because the starch in it crystallizes.

That drama school director Burt Lane points out: "A man becomes wise by watching what happens to him when he isn't."

That if a person hasn't been an alcoholic before 45, there is little danger he will become one after that age. One out of every six alcoholics is a woman.

That one thing elephants never forget is their jungle past. Even in captivity one elephant stays awake on guard while the rest of the herd sleep.

That Napoleon's favorite card game after his exile to St. Helena was solitaire.

That fewer than half of American housewives do all their food shopping at one store. The average wife trades at from two to four stores.

That 41 per cent of U.S. families now have dogs.

That you were probably born with 270 bones, but you'll die with only 206. The missing 64 merge with others during infancy.

That Kate Smith, who earned $50 million during 27 years of singing, never spoke until she was four years old. Probably because nobody made her a contract offer.

Future of NATO at Stake

By George Sokolsky

NATO is essentially a political and military alliance designed to challenge Soviet imperialism and to provide defenses against it. Associated with NATO was the Balkan Alliance, the Baghdad Pact and SEATO.

This established a military and political line west and south of Soviet Russia upon which the United States hoped to depend for peace and war. But these are voluntary organizations among free nations and therefore no coercive means can be used to enforce any of their decisions.

The Balkan Alliance collapsed because of the Cyprus situation which made it impossible for Greece and Turkey to remain in alliance. Also Turkey gyrated between a pro and anti-Soviet attitude since the emergence of Khrushchev as the top man in the Kremlin. More correctly, it is to be said that Tito responded to Soviet challenges, Russia always holding the initiative. As the Cyprus question finds no solution and as Tito is uncertain as to what course to pursue, it is not likely that the Balkan Alliance will ever be restored.

The Baghdad Pact has been assailed by Soviet Russia and by Nasser. It has been the principal stumbling block to Nasser's ambitions to establish an Arab universal state with himself as its head. The only Arab country in the Baghdad Pact is Iraq, unless a pro-Nasser government can take hold there.

The Iraq Revolution was designed to destroy the ruling house of Iraq and to join that country to Nasser's United Arab Republic. Should it finally eventuate that Iraq is out of the Baghdad Pact, it will be necessary to re-establish the line from Turkey to Pakistan, a very difficult task. Indeed, for Iraq was the center of such a line. Now Iran stands unsupported and in peril.

The problems of Turkey and Pakistan are thus seriously aggravated. Soviet Russia lies on top of Turkey and is devoted to crushing that country as Czarist Russia has been for more than two centuries. The Turks, however, are prepared for trouble with Russia and would probably welcome a test of strength because only then could the Turks know for sure whether they stand alone or really have allies. Sooner or later, this will have to be known. The struggle over Cyprus has proved very little either from the standpoint of Western solidarity or American good intentions toward Turkey.

Pakistan faces India and Afghanistan. Afghanistan is a neutral country but is so close to Soviet Russia as to be fearful of Russian infiltration or subversion or both. Pakistan and Afghanistan are equally involved in the efforts of the Pathans, the wild, nomadic peoples that lie between these two nations, to establish a new state to be called Pushtunistan. The Pathans are an extremely interesting tribal people who may be remnants of the so-called lost tribes of Israel because of vestigial customs and traditions among them.

As long as Pakistan belongs to the Baghdad Pact, it can safely move in the orbit of Asiatic nations related to NATO. If the Baghdad Pact is destroyed by the elimination of Iraq, the United States may have to guarantee the existence of Pakistan directly.

This will raise numerous questions with India which would prefer Pakistan not to exist at all. India has been playing the Soviet game on a gamble, but now has a serious problem on its hands in the emergence of the Communist force in India.

In a word, this revolution in Iraq upsets the structure of alliances and affiliations which have been carefully constructed since World War II and upon which the United States hoped to build a peace. It also upsets all existing arrangements among the neutrals.

But the Iraqi revolt also poses problems for Soviet Russia. In the first place, Soviet Russia's position as an imperialist country in the whole of Asia is absolutely exposed. Nasser may pose as an independent merchant, buying and selling where he can, but once the Marines set foot on Lebanese soil, Nasser's effort to establish a land bridge between Egypt and Syria was thwarted. If the Turks come to our aid in Lebanon, what may develop is a Turkish-Israeli alliance for mutual defense which would limit Nasser's imperialist designs.

These are two fighting nations that Nasser cannot influence by propaganda because they are against him per se. Such an alliance could force Nasser to risk another war as that which occurred in the Sinai Peninsula two years ago.

Try and Stop Me

JAMES THURBER, visibly displeased with the way the world is going, announced the other day, "I often think it would be fine if the French poodles could take over. They've certainly been more intelligent in the last few years than human beings, and they have more charm, grace and humor, too. I broached the subject to my own poodle. 'How about your species running things for a while?' I asked. My poodle, however, who is positively brilliant, promptly answered, 'The hell with it!'"

Always Be a Safe Swimmer

By Herman N. Bundesen, M. D.
Showing off in the water is one not-so-good way to lose your life. Swimming is fine relaxation, it teaches coordination, it's healthful exercise. I strongly recommend it.

But no one can swim well enough to take chances. Every year some 6,000 persons drown. Drownings are second only to traffic accidents as a cause of accidental deaths in the 5 to 44 age group. Most of these drownings could be prevented simply by using a little common sense. Now I know most of you have heard these warnings before, but I don't think I can emphasize water precaution enough. So here they are again. Read them; they may save a life this summer.

Don't show off or tease other persons while in the water. Such horseplay is apt to end in tragedy. Make sure that your children learn to swim at the earliest possible age. Urge them to join swimming classes conducted by the Red Cross, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA and YWCA or public schools.

Wait at least one hour—and I mean an hour—after eating before going into the water. Swim only in safe places and obey the lifeguard. Don't dive until you are sure the water is deep enough and free of dangerous rocks.

Don't overestimate your skill or strength. Always try to have another swimmer nearby.

Stay out of the water during storms.

One more word of caution: Should your boat upset, your best bet probably is to stay with it. Most rowboats and outboards will stay afloat even when capsized. Your chances of rescue are generally better if you cling to the craft rather than attempt to swim to shore.

Question and Answer
Mrs. S. S.: What causes chapped lips, and is there any cure for it?
Answer: Chapped lips are usually seen in nervous people who moisten and bite their lips excessively, and then expose the lips to cold winds.

A lack of vitamin B-2, or riboflavin, may be a contributing cause.

Chapping generally yields to some simple ointment, such as cold cream, unless a secondary infection has occurred.

The World Today

By James Marlow

By ROBERT D. NOVAK
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has postponed for at least a year a decision, and the fight certain to go with it, on how to develop atomic electric power.

The 386 million dollar atomic energy authorization bill approved by the House and the Senate last week provides little in the way of new reactor development.

President Eisenhower wanted only half that amount approved, he protested, though not too vigorously the bill drafted by the Democratic-controlled Senate House Atomic Energy Committee.

But the Atomic Energy Commission and Republican members of the committee raised little objection to the measure, and the bill sailed through Congress without a call in either house.

The ease of passage was in sharp contrast to the bitter bipartisan battles of the previous two years over atomic authorizations. It was deliberate.

Democratic members of the committee who want an ambitious long-term program of atomic reactor construction deliberately withheld their proposals this year to achieve a monetary truce.

They feel that with Rear Adm. Lewis L. Strauss no longer chairman of the AEC, the commission and Congress might have a better chance of getting together next year.

The basic question that arose shortly after World War II remains: Shall the government take the lead in development of atomic energy for power or shall the responsibility be given to private industry?

Democrats on the joint committee want the government to take the initiative on the ground that private industry is either unwilling or unable to expend the vast sums which would be required.

Republican committee members have expressed fears that government-financed development would provide a foot in the door for public power interests to take over atomic power.

The lone large-scale power reactor in operation, at Shippingport, Pa., is owned by the government though operated by Duquesne Light Co.

The next reactor expected to produce commercial power, a proposed Commonwealth Edison Co. plant at Dresden, Ill., south of Chicago, will be financed entirely by private funds.

The private vs. public power issue was voiced only briefly during the Senate debate on this year's bill. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) proposed an amendment that would have prevented conversion of a government plutonium plant at Hanford, Wash., to generate electric power.

The amendment lost to the argument that any power produced would be used by the AEC installation itself.

Capitol Hill sources indicate the committee next year may come up with some kind of proposal for a long-range program of power reactor construction.

If it does, Congress will face another private vs. public power fight but may settle the issue once and for all.

Mideast Fuss May Bring Hike in Prices

Pressure for Higher Tags Noted Before East-West Hassle

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The brief early summer lull in the rise of the cost of living is being upset today by storm clouds building up in the Middle East.

Pressure for higher prices was rising even before Western troops moved into Asia Minor and the Russian Bear began to growl more loudly.

But the Middle East developments are acting like a booster shot. Tending toward the high road: Gasoline, tires, used cars, commuter fares, metals, wool, sugar and rubber.

Part of this is because speculators moved into the commodity futures markets, particularly in London, and ignoring the over supply of most materials bid up the prices of metals and grains.

Part of the upward price pressure is due to sober judgment of businessmen that sources of some raw materials might be shut off and distribution of others disturbed.

And this belief could lead many purchasing agents to take a second look at their inventory policies. For months stocks were being cut. Any change toward building them up again could have a quick impact on prices.

Some consumer prices already were on the rise. Example: Gasoline price wars were beginning to ebb. Prices of gasoline were firming in many sectors. The threat of disruption of the flow of oil from the Middle East with the implied strain, however temporary, on Western supplies, firmed the minds of oil executives. And last week wholesale gas price rises became commonplace. Talk that fuel oil prices would be next was wide spread.

Revived was the memory of the price rise in domestic crude oil that followed the closing of the Suez Canal and the spurt in Western Europe's need for oil.

Domestic producers have moved quickly this time to reassure Americans of the adequacy of supplies here—although saying nothing of any possibility of a price rise.

They point out that domestic crude oil output now is about 6½ million barrels a day, while producing capacity is 9½ million barrels, and that at the March, 1957, peak of the Suez crisis, production here rose to 7½ million barrels daily—thus presumably leaving safe room for maneuvering.

But consumers are facing other rising prices. Used cars have gone up, although new cars have been slow moving. The price of the forthcoming models is still in doubt, but Detroit says the chance to spend a lot extra on expensive accessories will be greater than ever.

A tire price boost, tied more to operating costs than to any threat to the natural rubber market, could add still more to the cost of transportation. And already many commuter rail and bus fares are on the rise.

Copper prices, wobbling uncertainly for a time, have firmed quickly on the Middle East news. Those who believe a hike in the price of steel and aluminum can be made to stick have new ammunition.

Body of Camp Counselor Is Finally Found

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Searchers have recovered the body of 22-year-old Judith E. Koonce of Cleveland, a camp counselor who drowned while trying to rescue one of her campers.

Her body was found shortly before noon Sunday, ending a 73-hour search by 30 groups of volunteers. The spot is about 250 feet from where she entered the Little Miami River Thursday.

Witnesses said she climbed down a cliff to a point about 35 feet above the water in Clifton Gorge, then jumped. She was seen once in the water, then disappeared.

Miss Koonce had gone to the rescue of Kyrleen Ruhle of Lakeview (Logan County) after the 11-year-old girl tumbled over the rim of the gorge and fell 90 feet into the water. The little girl's body was found several hours later, about 1,500 feet downstream.

The accident happened while Miss Koonce was leading a group of about 40 girls from a Clifton 4-H camp along the rim of the gorge.

Dognapping Is Reported

Melvin Thompson, 146 E. Union St., reported to police last night that two Beagle pups were stolen from in front of his house. He said he saw a car drive away after the pups were picked up by a stranger.

Movie-Writing Pair Finds Alaska To Be Fascinating

By BOB THOMAS

AP Motion Picture Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The screen's biggest tribute to Alaska is being whipped up by a husband-and-wife team who admit they are unabashedly in love with the 49th state of the union.

They are Art and Jo Napoleon, a writing and producing combo who are preparing the film version of Edna Ferber's latest novel, "The Ice Palace." They went to Alaska to get background for the film, intending to stay two weeks. They lingered six.

"And still we only touched the surface," said Art.

"The place is fascinating — fascinating!" added his lovely wife. Art explained: "We went up there to get the feeling of the place and also to find some action sequences for the picture.

"We found all we needed and then some. We went all over Alaska, by dog sled, plane and boat. We visited Eskimo villages and DEW line installations (radar stations for warning of air attacks) and even went polar bear hunting. We came back big Alaska Boosters."

Among their observations of state No. 49:

"Everybody knows what is going on. We went up unannounced. We didn't intend to talk to anyone in Seattle, because the book is somewhat anti-Seattle and we didn't want to start any problems. That is, Miss Ferber argued that the interests in Seattle controlled Alaska, depleted the salmon by using traps that are outlawed everywhere else and avoided paying taxes in Alaska.

"We talked to just two people in Seattle and the word went everywhere. At each stop, they knew who we were and what we were doing up there.

"At least 90 per cent of the citizens favored statehood. Of the rest, many of them weren't in favor because they had come to Alaska to avoid the usual problems in the states. They were afraid they would lose that independent feeling of being in a territory.

"The biggest problem is roads. Most of them lead only a few miles out of town, even from the biggest cities.

"Some Alaskans think that statehood will solve all the problems. It won't. The best hope for Alaska is in developing the tourist trade. The scenery is unbelievable. Alaska could be a great tourist attraction if they had adequate housing and transportation for visitors.

"Prices are 75 per cent above the United States. That's natural because everything has to be shipped up there, and there is nothing to send back on the boats. So freight charges are double.

"Fires are a constant problem. All the houses are overheated. The wood is dried out and the heating is oil. When a fire starts, not much can be done because the fire truck can't start and the river is under four feet of ice."

State Slates Hearing on Route 361 Job

A public hearing to discuss proposals for extending State Route 361 in connection with plans for new northbound lanes on U.S. 23 in Pickaway County near the Ross County line is scheduled for Tuesday, July 29, the Ohio Department of Highways announced today.

The new lanes will replace a narrow section of the old route on which visibility is poor due to hills and dips. Right-of-way for the new lanes was procured when the route was made a four-lane divided highway several years ago.

Highway Department officials hope to place the $640,000 project under contract this fall. The new lanes will closely parallel the present southbound lanes, less than one-tenth mile west of the old route. Specifically the hearing will deal with the extending State Route 361 to the southbound lanes.

The hearing will begin at 10 a. m. in the Common Pleas Court Room of the Pickaway County Court House.

Highway Department engineers will be present to explain and discuss the proposals with interested persons.

Sheriff's Office Recovers Stolen Car from LAFB

The Pickaway County Sheriff's office recovered a stolen car yesterday afternoon. The vehicle was reported missing from Lockbourne Air Force Base at 10 a. m.

Sheriff's deputies said the car was spotted by Carl Adkins, Route 2, Chillicothe, who told the sheriff's office he saw two men "stripping" the car along the N & W and C & O Railroads just north of the Red Bridge-East Ringgold Road.

Officers investigated the abandoned car and discovered it matched the description of a car reported missing from LAFB.

Louisville Housewife Wild About Parachute Jumping

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Now that she's a member of the Kentucky Parachute Assn. and has completed a free-fall jump, you'd think Mrs. June O'Leary would be satisfied.

She's not. The next step, says this mother of two, is sky diving. If you can bear the thought, that is jumping from a plane and doing cartwheels, somersaults and such things before pulling the ripcord and floating to the ground.

She also wants to learn to do this sort of thing at night and to jump over water.

Mrs. O'Leary says she loves jumping. And it's easy too, "easier, I'm told, than skin diving or water skiing," she says. She's proud that she now has the designation of "jumper," reserved for parachutists who have made free-fall jumps—that is, they pull their own ripcords on the way down.

She completed such a jump recently in an exhibition at a local airfield. Before that time, she jumped in the usual feminine way—using an 8-foot cord attached to the plane which pulls the ripcord automatically.

The successful free-fall jump was Mrs. O'Leary's second try. Earlier she went up at Seymour, Ind., to join the "jumper" circle. But her children were on the ground watching, she said, and "I kept thinking how horrible it would be if they saw anything happen to me."

So, when the plane reached 3,300 feet—a fine jumping height—Mrs. O'Leary came down the same way she went up—in the plane.

On her successful try she made sure her children, Kathleen, 4, and Bobby, 6, were not there to watch. Her friends' comments? They think she "should be taking up a more feminine hobby."

But the children are proud of mommy. Every neighborhood storekeeper has heard, over and over: "My mother can jump from an airplane."

Farmers, Motorists Urged To Use Highway Caution

The "Old Gray Mare" isn't what she used to be. Still, Ohio's 200,000 farm tractors haven't nearly enough horses to safely keep pace with high-speed traffic on the state's highway system.

Farmers and motorists today were urged to use caution and courtesy to avoid the hazards found this summer with a number of these 200,000 tractors hauling machinery on the highway.

These are reminders from Ohio's highway safety director Gordon Jeffery and W. E. Stuckey, safety extension specialist at the Ohio State University, who issued a joint statement warning of dangers to all concerned in observance of National Farm Safety Week, July 20-26.

This annual promotion of all phases of farm safety was proclaimed by President Eisenhower.

LAST YEAR farm tractors were involved in 332 auto accidents on Ohio's highways, 10 of which were fatal collisions, according to a report by the department of highway safety.

"Motorists must constantly expect to encounter farm tractors moving on the highway this time of year and be prepared to slow down, exercising caution and courtesy," the officials stated.

"Tractors, corn-pickers and hay-balers are going to be out on the highways and have every right to be there, provided they move with maximum safety."

Jeffery and Stuckey offer this five-point program for traffic safety precautions:

1. The farm machinery operator should try to keep off main highways and thoroughfares when possible, and use less traveled routes.

2. When traffic becomes lined up behind slow-moving farm tractor of such equipment should exercise courtesy and pull off the highway at the first convenience and allow the line of traffic to pass.

3. A red flag should be displayed on a large vertical pole mounted on the rear of equipment. This will serve as a warning to motorists approaching from over low hills and curves where the view is obscured.

4. When it is necessary to move farm equipment at night, be sure it is properly lighted in accordance with Ohio vehicle lighting regulations.

5. Either use the berm or the right lane for travel. Traveling in the middle gives motorists false appearance of three-lane highway, creating hazards.

NATALIE WOOD says teens can use all the make-up they need—powder, rouge, lipstick—as long as it looks natural!

'Typical Teen' Actress Discusses Young Beauty

She's considered a typical American teenager, but let's face facts: Natalie Wood is 20, married and an important actress who's currently starring in the movie version of "Marjorie Morningstar." Still, she hears from countless young fans, who want to know how they can look like typical teens, too. If she gave away all her own secrets we might well have a nation of Natalie look-alikes but, wisely, the star realizes each beauty problem must be decided individually.

Generally, she believes age should be the factor that determines how much or how little make-up to use.

Are adult cosmetics, such as eyebrow pencil, permissible for a 17-year-old? Natalie says yes, providing they don't detract from the well-scrubbed natural look that should be every teen's goal. Pencil brows if they need it, but avoid a heavy line.

So many teens, trying lipstick for the first time, make a smear of it. It takes practice, says Natalie. She advises working with a lipstick brush and several shades

Curls Help Camouflage A Short-Short Coiffure

Short is chic. That's the hair story of the moment.

We've been through other close-cropped periods, but the current one's the most attractive yet. Hair is trimmed, true, but it gives the illusion of being long. That's because it's thickly set with curls and ringlets.

This is no boyish look. Not in the least! It's a very feminine trend, one which will win male approval. Hair may be short, but as long as it doesn't look that way the gents won't complain.

Bangs are a big part of the picture. They range all the way from full Buster Browns, through soft wavy see-through fringes, to gay little wisps.

One of the most exciting short-short cuts, shown recently by Coiffures Americana, a national group of hair stylists, is called the Tumbleset.

Family Reunion Held Sunday At Fairgrounds

The descendants of Mary Alma Stuckey met Sunday at the Fairgrounds for their annual family reunion. Games for the children, visiting for their parents occupied the group during the afternoon following the basket dinner.

Wenrick Stuckey, president, presided for a short business session, during which he was re-elected and Mrs. Waldo Martin was named secretary-treasurer to succeed Mrs. James Taylor who has served during the past two years.

Rodney Ward and Sterling Poling were named as a committee to select a place for next year's gathering which will be held on the third Sunday in July.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, Bruce, Marlene and Sharon, Clarkston, Michigan; William Peters, Metamora, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor, Dickie and Kay, Xenia; Mrs. John E. Noecker, Johnny, Karen and Diana, Waynesville;

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Poling, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Poling, Mike and Bonnie of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Ward, Bobby and Becky, Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Wenrick Stuckey, Miss Louise Stuckey, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin, Terry, Randy and Robin;

Mrs. William Shelton and Billy Ann; Mr. and Mrs. Porter Martin, Miss Mae Martin; Mr. and Mrs. Porter Martin, Jr. and Kim; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Martin, Willa Sue, Mitchell and Matt; Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Poling, Lorna and Drexel; and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Fullen, Carlene and Marty.

Add a rose geranium to your garden plants; later on put a leaf in each glass of apple jelly you make. Delectable flavor!

Beach Beauty Hints For Your Little Girl

Don't go near the water? The average darling daughter, left to her own devices, would spend the entire summer in pool, lake or ocean. When there's water around, most little girls want to make a splash!

Let daughter enjoy herself, but protect her beauty from sun and surf.

Generally, you don't have to worry about youngsters sunburning. Hours of outdoor play at home have conditioned their complexions to sunshine, started them on the way to a tan. Still, don't take chances at the beach. Coat them with protective lotion and, during the day, keep an eye on them. If skin shows redness, it's time to bundle them up and head for home.

Don't let Daughter spend too much time in the sunshine. After lunch, lure her under the umbrella for a nap or some quiet play.

See that she has a sun hat — something gimmicky and glamorous she'll enjoy wearing to protect her hair and ward off the hot noon-day rays.

Limit bathing time. Too much swimming can leave her chilled. Be sure you pack a comb and brush, so she can slick up at the end of the day.

Another good item to take along is a beach box for a little girl. It holds scented bath powder to smooth over her skin when she switches from swim suit to shorts. There's a bottle of toilet water, too, with an atomizer spray to make her sweet-smelling after a shower.

The outside of the box has paper doll cut-outs to amuse her when you want her to rest or during the car trip to or fro. The paper doll's wardrobe includes a fitted swim suit with a pleated ruffled skirt in checked gingham. It's actually

Jim Bunning Hurts No-Hit, No-Run Game

Detroit Star Tames
Bosox, Putting Gopher
Ball High on Shelf

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
When Jim Bunning shelved the home run ball for the strikeout pitch, he was on the way back to his brilliant 1957 form.

Detroit's 20-game winner of a year ago pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Boston's sluggers at Fenway Park Sunday. Six weeks ago he couldn't get anybody out. In his first 11 games Bunning allowed 11 homers. Then he went on his strikeout spree.

He fanned 12 Red Sox June 11, 14 New York Yankees June 20, 10 Yanks July 16 and 12 Red Sox in his no-hitter. His total of 108 strikeouts puts him ahead of New York's Bob Turley for the American League lead.

Despite Bunning's magic, Detroit lost ground in the chase of the Yankees as did every other club. The Tigers won behind Bunning 3-0 but lost the second game to Boston 5-2 as Ike Delock ran his amazing won-loss record to 10-0 and 13-0 over a two-year span.

Yogi Berra hit a two-run homer as the Yanks took two from Kansas City 3-1 and 8-0. As a result, New York leads the league by 11 games.

Roy Siever's ninth-inning homer in the second game aroused Washington fans to run around the bases with him, celebrating a 5-4 victory over Chicago. Dick Donovan's five-hit pitching gave the White Sox a 4-2 opening game decision.

Joe Ginsberg came through with a single with the bases loaded in the 10th inning for Baltimore's 3-2 edge over Cleveland. After Bob Boyd opened the 10th with a triple, Cleveland walked Gene Woodling and Bob Nieman intentionally but Ginsberg crossed up the strategy with his winning hit. Arnold Portocarrero won his fifth straight, finishing up with 7 1-3 hitless innings.

In the National, San Francisco ran its winning streak to six with a 7-3 romp over Pittsburgh, clinging to a half-game lead. Warren Spahn won his 12th for Milwaukee, 4-2 over the Chicago Cubs.

Los Angeles finally escaped from the cellar with a 6-0 victory over Philadelphia on Johnny Podres' four-hitter. St. Louis dumped Cincinnati into last place as Sam Jones struck out 12 on the way to a 3-1 decision.

The big excitement was in Boston, where Bunning snapped a six-game Red Sox winning streak. He walked two and hit one. He faced only 30 batters.

Berra played right field for the Yanks in both games as he returned to the lineup after a layoff due to a hand injury. His homer scored Enos Slaughter, who had singled for his fourth hit. Jerry Lumpe's three-run homer made it easy for Ford, who gave up only five hits in winning his 12th.

Siever's big blow at Washington came off Early Wynn, who had just come out of the bullpen. Billy Goodman had four hits in the double-header to take over the batting lead at .337.

THIS IS A BALL PARK?—Ted Farr, head groundskeeper of Connie Mack Stadium, the Philadelphia Phils' home park, scratches his head as he contemplates the task of putting the field back into shape for baseball following the park's occupancy by a rodeo and Wild West show. The now bare ground must be completely reseeded in seven days. The nag at the right makes no comment.

Dow Finsterwald Is PGA Champion

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

HAVERTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Dow Finsterwald, a thoughtful and articulate young golf champion, doesn't think he's a great golfer or even an unusually good one.

As a result, he doesn't let it get him down when he finishes second or even lower in a tournament. He's probably the most relaxed player on the pro circuit.

"It feels very strange to be first," he said after winning the 40th Professional Golfers Assn. championship with four superb rounds of 67-72-70-67—276 over the tightly trapped Llanerch Country Club course.

"I don't feel that I played less conservatively. I feel as if I played much the same as I've always done."

Although he had every reason to go all out when he and Sammy Snead hooked up in a final-round duel, he insisted it wasn't boldness or gambling that won.

Close observers thought otherwise. To them Finsterwald appeared to be hitting out boldly, going for the greens and trying to sink every putt while Snead turned cautious.

Finsterwald, a 28-year-old graduate of Ohio University who has been on the pro circuit since 1951, was the runner-up to Lionel Hebert in the match play PGA Championship last year.

He went into Sunday's fourth round two strokes behind Snead and one behind Bill Casper.

Casper took second with a 278 total—the only man besides Finsterwald to break par for 72 holes at Llanerch—while Snead played third with an even par 280. Jackie Burke, the 1956 PGA champ, came in fourth with 281, then there was a big gap to the 285s posted by National Open champion Tommy Bolt, Julius Boros and Jay Hebert. The defending champion,

Joe Brown To Defend Ring Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Brown makes his fifth defense of the world light-weight boxing title Wednesday night at Sam Houston Coliseum in Houston against Kenny Lane, a clever southpaw from Muskegon, Mich.

The 32-year-old champ who never has let a challenger go the limit when the title was on the line, is expected to be a 12 to 5 favorite in the 15-round match.

Brown's career record for 96 fights is 70-15-9 with two no contest matches.

Lane, 26 hasn't lost since Oct. 2, 1955 when he dropped a decision to Paddy De Marco in New York. He has won 19 straight and has a record of 52-5.

The championship bout will be televised (ABC) across the nation.

Pete Rademacher, the Olympic heavyweight champ of 1956, continues to fight his way down through the heavy division. He met Floyd Patterson, the pro champion, in his first start last August and was knocked out in six rounds. Friday night at Los Angeles, Rademacher boxes Zora Folley, the Chandler, Ariz. scrapper who is co-rated with Eddie Machen as the No. 1 contender. Rademacher will be a longshot, about 3 to 1 against the more experienced Folley although Rademacher, 30, is three years older than his opponent.

The fight is to be carried on television (NBC) radio and television.

Lionel Hebert, wound up 13 strokes behind at 291.

The victory added $5,500 to Dow's bulging bankroll. He has won more than $35,000 in each of the past two years, with only one tournament victory in each season. So far this year he has collected about $20,000.

Top Hat Nine Split Benefit Doubleheader

Top Hat's benefit doubleheader for Ted Sims ended in a split Saturday night at Ted Lewis Park.

Visiting North Lewisburg Firemen captured the first tilt, 5-2, but Top Hat came back to take the second, 2-1.

The doubleheader was played for former Top Hatter Sims who underwent surgery for a back ailment several weeks ago. Top Hat officials said approximately $100 was collected in the effort.

Top Hat registered only three hits in the first game, with Leon Sim's double being the locals' only extra base blow. Kenny Reid, who took over mound duties in the fifth, blasted the other two safeties.

BILL Cook was charged with the loss. Converse was the winning pitcher, backed up by nine hits by his teammates.

Paul Neff sparked the Hatters in the second game, turning in a neat three-hitter. Top Hat collected six bingles, including a double by Harold Gulick.

The Kiwanis Club will sponsor a trip to Jet Stadium, Columbus, Wednesday for all local Kid Baseballers.

The young baseballers will watch the Columbus Jets take on the Rochester Red Wings in an International League doubleheader.

Players are urged to be at Ted Lewis Park at 4:30 p. m. Parents of players are urged to make the trip and furnish transportation if needed.

DOWN BUT NOT OUT—Don Blasingame, Cardinal second baseman, lies on the ground after being hit in the groin when he fumbled a grounder in game played in St. Louis. Bob Bauman, the Red Birds' trainer, examines the stricken athlete. Despite painful injury, Don remained in the game.

Tribe Chief Says Indians Need 'Luck'

CLEVELAND (AP)—Close, but not close enough, seems to be the trend followed by the Cleveland Indians recently. Manager Joe Gordon says all the Tribe needs to rebound into the first division is a "change of luck."

The seventh place Indians returned home today after one of their worst road trips in years. They lost nine of the 13 games played. Six defeats were by one run and two came in extra innings.

The Baltimore Orioles came from behind Sunday for a 3-2 triumph in 10 innings after the Indians had led by a pair.

Cleveland opens a 15-game home stand Tuesday with a two-night doubleheader against the Washington Senators.

Joe Ginsberg's single with the bases loaded in the 10th inning gave the Orioles a one-run victory.

The rally started when Bob Boyd opened the 10th with a triple off starter Hoyt Wilhelm, the hard-luck knuckleballer who didn't allow an earned run.

Gordon summoned Ray Narleski from the bullpen and ordered intentional walks to Gene Woodling and Bob Nieman to set up a double-play possibility.

Dick Williams was retired on a pop foul but Ginsberg followed with a drive over Rocky Colavito's head.

The Indians were limited to two hits by Arnold Portocarrero, who posted his fifth straight victory. Both hits came in the third inning when the Indians scored both their runs.

Ford Outfit Wins LL Tilt

Ford Furniture downed Kiwanis, 5-3, in a Little League make up game played Saturday afternoon at Ted Lewis Park.

Jeff Lutz worked on the mound for Fords, while Bruce Helwagen was charged with the loss. Each hurler gave up six hits.

Fords staged an uprising in the fifth to score all their runs. Gary Bell led the way for the winners, collecting two hits in three trips.

The only extra base blow was a double by Helwagen of the losers.

According to Roger Bennington, park director, all games scheduled for Wednesday will be moved up for Friday. Game times and diamonds to be used will remain the same as on the Wednesday schedule.

R. C. Owen, star pass receiver for the San Francisco 49ers, was a standout end while playing for the College of Idaho.

Cincy Feels Brooks Loses His 'Touch'

CINCINNATI (AP) — Brooks Lawrence, who licked a siege of ulcers and came back to become the Cincinnati Redlegs' winningest pitcher two years ago, has apparently lost a little of his touch.

The St. Louis Cardinals knocked him out of the box in the fourth inning Sunday and went on to pick up a 3-1 decision.

It dropped the Reds into the National League cellar.

But it may be just another slow-starting season for Lawrence.

The bull-necked righthander ran into some bad breaks last season and at one time had an 11-11 record before finishing up with a 16-13 mark. Right now he is 6-7.

His trouble seems to come in spurts, like the quick tattoo of hits in the fourth inning of Sunday's game.

Stan Musial and Ken Boyer put the rally in motion with singles and Wally Moon batted in one run. Former Redleg Curt Flood singled in another marker and rookie Ruben Amaro walked to fill the bases. That ended the day for Lawrence.

But his successor, Tom Acker, was touched for a run-making single by Sad Sam Jones before he could shut off the inning.

The Cards did little at the plate thereafter, but they didn't need to with righthander Jones on hand.

He weakened only once, when the Reds punched out a run in the third inning.

Ed Bailey doubled and Gus Bell doubled him home.

The Reds turn tonight to the Chicago Cubs for the start of a four-game series. Harvey Haddix was nominated to start for Cincinnati, opposing Dick Drott or Marceline Solis.

Athens Hails Dow, Finally A 'Bride'

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Dow Finsterwald, until Sunday practically always the bridesmaid but never the bride in his golf tournament career, was welcomed here today by a crowd of about 150 people who gave him the key to the city.

Finsterwald, who has finished second 17 times in tournaments over the last 31 months and won only once — the 1957 Tucson Open—arrived here after tucking the PGA championship under his belt Sunday.

The 28-year-old Finsterwald was met by his wife, Linda, his mother, Mrs. Russ Finsterwald, and his sister, Mrs. June Long, along with a host of local fans as he drove into the city limits. His father was coming here from Philadelphia.

A 35-car caravan, police-escorted took Dow to the Athens Country Club where an early morning buffet dinner was held in his honor. There Finsterwald had a reunion with his onetime pro instructor, Bob Littler, and his former golf coach, Kermit Blosser of Ohio University.

Signs which greeted Finsterwald on his arrival bore such messages as "Always a Bridesmaid, Never a Bride, Now PGA Champ."

THIS IS IT!—A happy Patty Berg waves the winner's check for $7,500 after her conquest of the Women's Open Golf championship at Minneapolis, Minn. It was a doubly sweet triumph for Patty since Minneapolis is her home town.

Master Tennis Strategists Give Lessons on Winning

CHICAGO (AP) —Two master tennis strategists gave their opponents a few lessons Sunday in winning the National Clay Court singles championships.

Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode, seeking an unprecedented third singles title to go with those she won in 1951 and 1953, administered the first lesson in the 48th annual tournament in suburban River Forest. Her pupil was Karol Fageros of Miami.

The 33-year-old Forest Hills, N.Y., veteran showed Miss Fageros how to overcome a hampering injury by varying one's game. Miss Fageros played her usual running defensive game, and the top-seeded star, nursing a pulled tendon in her playing arm, adopted similar tactics.

Mrs. Knode retreated to the baseline and offered soft, tantalizing lob shots to the golden panties girl, who either netted them or erred by setting up point-winning ground strokes. The younger player tired first, and Mrs. Knode won 6-3, 6-8, 6-2.

Bernard (Tut) Bartzen, left-handed Dallas baseline specialist, gave the second lesson.

Bartzen, who won the singles title in 1954, picked up another by showing Sam Giammalva he should never change his style to that of his opponent when his opponent has been using the style successfully on clay courts for a couple decades.

The 23-year-old Houston slugger took the first set 6-3 by charging the net and overpowering Bartzen. Giammalva then began spending more and more time at the baseline. But he learned that few men in the nation can outvolley Bartzen on clay.

Perfectly intermixing drop shots and sideline placements, the second-seeded Texan won the next three sets 7-5, 6-2, 6-2.

Giammalva teamed with Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, top-seeded singles player who was beaten by Sammy in the quarter-finals, to whip Bartzen and Chicago's Grant Golden for the doubles title 6-2, 6-4, 5-7, 3-6, 6-0.

Washington C.H. All Ready For 4 Days of Sulky Races

WASHINGTON C.H.—One of the best harness racing programs in years is in prospect for the Fayette County Fair which opens here Tuesday.

There is a reason for optimism, too. The purses for the overnight races have been nearly doubled—from $500 last year to $800 this year—and the four Ohio Colt Racing Assn. stakes will be raced for a pot of $1,000 added—that is $1,000 will be added to the nomination and entry fees.

The increase in purses, speed commitments have been told by horsemen, will attract horses from the commercial meetings now in progress at Hilliards and Hamilton and possibly from even more distant tracks.

The stakes events, all of which are expected to have purses of at least $1,500, should draw some of the best 2-year-olds and 3-year-olds of both gait to the Fair here

Van Camp Co. Gets Contract For Road Jobs

George W. Van Camp Thursday submitted the only bid on Pickaway County's resurfacing program to the County Commissioners. Van Camp was awarded the contract.

Van Camp's bid was of equal amount on the four major items of County Engineer Henry McCrady's estimate. On the two minor items, Van Camp's bid was slightly lower. A total of $7.04 million of county roads will be resurfaced under this 1958 program.

The local road construction firm's bid was identical on the following four items: road tar RT-7, $54,632.36; wash gravel No. 9, $15,932; 40 per cent crush gravel No. 6, $1,119.40; plant mix T-135, $18,000.

Items the bid differed on were on lights, signs, barricades, and traffic maintenance, in which the engineer estimated the cost at $365.64, and Van Camp entered a bid of $224.21. Van Camp bid $1,210.73 for premiums on industrial insurance while McCrady's estimate was $1,345.30.

McCrady's total estimated cost was $91,394.70. Van Camp's bid was $91,118.70, a difference of $276.

Tighter Curfew Put on Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—All Cyprus today was under a dusk-to-dawn curfew clamped down by the British for the next 30 days in a desperate attempt to stop violence.

The longest curfew imposed since the violence between Greek and Turk Cypriots began in 1955, it resulted from a bloody vendetta that has killed 20 people in the last week.

The Greek and Turk communities on this British island in the eastern Mediterranean have been fighting over the future of Cyprus. The 400,000 Greeks want the island to be independent so they can unite with Greece. The 100,000 Turks want the island partitioned because they fear they would lose their rights under Greece.

Actress Betsy Palmer Shuns Enthusiasm about Hollywood

NEW YORK (AP)—Pretty Betsy Palmer is one actress who won't chase the dogies to the Hollywood roundup.

"I will sit here in New York and wait until the Western fad has worn itself out in television," said Miss Palmer happily.

And when Miss Palmer says sit, she means sit—on TV panel shows and TV game shows and filling in on occasion as women's editor of Dave Garroway's Today Show.

On July 30, Betsy will star in a live-from-New York Theatre Guild production.

Meanwhile, gamesmanship has its rewards not altogether financial.

"I've never been one of those parlor game fiends," says Miss Palmer. "As a matter of fact, if I had a choice, I'd rather sit around and talk. I was surprised when the 'I've Got a Secret' people called me to ask me to fill in the first time—I can't remember whether it was for Faye Emerson or Jayne Meadows."

Since then, Betsy has become an "I've Got a Secret" regular. Betsy has achieved stature as a gamesman and ad libber, and she has faith that, like measles, Westerns are bound to run their course. And television games-playing makes it possible for her to live in New York, where her husband is a successful obstetrician.

"I am very fond of my husband," says Betsy, "and it is very nice to be able to work and also be with him. Of course, if a very good film job came up, that would be different."

Meanwhile Miss Palmer and her husband have bought a big, old house just across the Hudson from New York and are launching an enormous remodeling job. So between serving as major domo of the housing project, playing games and acting, Betsy will have a busy, busy summer. And maybe, come fall, the last roundup of the Westerns will be approaching.

Man Objects to Neighbor's Swimming Pool, Kills Pair

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A steelworker who objected to a swimming pool next door was held by police today. They said he admitted killing his neighbor's wife and a guest, and wounding two other guests attending a birthday party at the pool.

The steelworker is Joseph Sabatino, 67, who lives in a new residential section on the southwest edge of this city.

Police Capt. Stephen Birch said Sabatino had been complaining about a swimming pool and an eight-foot fence completed a few weeks ago by Dr. H. Jack Little, an osteopath.

Sunday 16 friends were invited to the Little home to celebrate the doctor's 33rd birthday. Most of them were around the swimming pool. There was another argument, followed by a scuffle on the Sabatino side of the property line, said Capt. Birch, after which Sabatino went into his home and got a revolver holding five shots. He emptied it into four people, said the officer.

The doctor was not hit, but his wife, Pauline, 34, was struck by two bullets and killed. Another bullet took the life of Roland Page, 30, an automotive parts salesman. Charles Brown, 31, of suburban Boardman, was hit in the chest. His wife, Melba, 28, was hit in the left leg.

Capt. Birch said when he arrived on the scene, he found the gun in the yard and Sabatino in his home. The steelworker admitted the shootings and declared "they made me nervous and I didn't know what I was doing," said the officer.

Sabatino's objections to the pool included a claim that water was seeping through the banked edges of the pool and was ruining his yard. He also objected to noise from the swimmers.

Fleet Boss Ready With More Aid

ABOARD USS DES MOINES, Off Lebanon (AP)—Vice Adm. Charles R. Brown said today his U.S. 6th Fleet is capable of supporting Jordan, if ordered to do so, with the same ease it went to the assistance of the Lebanese government.

Brown told newsmen aboard the Des Moines, his flagship, that his fleet has now grown to 75 ships.

Members of the admiral's staff said 16 planes from the fleet had been hit by Lebanese rebel small arms fire in the last three days but that damage was slight in all cases.

Guard Injury Compensable

Ex-Wife Can't Take All Funds

Questions of interest to ex-service men should be given to Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer, Jim Shea. His offices are in the basement of the Courthouse in Circleville.

By JIM SHEA

Q—I am in the National Guard. Several years ago, while at summer training camp with the guard, I was injured. Is there any possibility of having this injury considered as service connected?

A—Very possible. The National Defense Act does allow service connection to be granted to a member of the National Guard who may suffer an injury or disability while on active duty training at a summer camp.

Q—I read in one of your past columns that an ex-wife could have the VA take an apportionment of her ex-husband's disability compensation for the support of his children if he is not doing so under the provisions of the divorce decree. My ex-husband is receiving a 20 per cent service connected disability compensation in the amount of $36 per month. How do I go about getting an apportionment of his money?

A—I am very sorry, but in this specific case, you can't get an apportionment of his compensation. In order for an apportionment to be granted in any case, the veteran must be receiving a compensation or pension in the amount of more than 20 per cent service connected disability. If the amount of compensation is less than 20 per cent, no apportionment can be granted.

Q—My father in law is drawing a 30 per cent service connected disability compensation. He will be 65 next month. Some friends told him that at the age of 65 he would get an automatic increase to $78.75 per month. Is that correct?

A—THAT IS NOT correct. Service connected disabilities are not given an automatic increase to $78.75 per month at any time. Veterans receiving total non-service connected pensions prior to the age of 65 will receive an automatic increase to $78.75 upon reaching the age of 65. I would suggest, since your father in law's compensation is less than $78.75 per month, that he file for pension next month, and the claim will no doubt be allowed. He must file for it, it will not be automatic.

Q—Two years ago I converted my GI term insurance to a permanent plan policy. How soon can I borrow on this policy, and how much can I borrow?

A—You can borrow on your policy now since it has been in force more than one year. The amount you can borrow may not exceed 94 per cent of the cash reserve of your permanent plan policy.

Q—Will my Government Pension have any bearing on my Social Security payments?

A—Only if you are under the age of 65. If you are over the age of

Today's Collegians Curtail Disapproval of Immorality

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A survey of today's college students discloses they show less disapproval of immoral acts connected with sex than any of their predecessors of the past three decades.

The study just completed by two psychiatric researchers at Ohio State University here shows, for instance, that:

A man's desertion of an unwed mother, which students of the past 30 years ranked high among the "top 10 sins" of our time, has now been relegated to last place on that list.

Today's students, while still condemning premarital sex relations and adultery, do so less strongly than their predecessors.

However, divorce for incompatibility, where no children are involved, was acceptable to many students of 1929 and 1939, yet it is meeting with growing rejection today.

Similarly, disbelief in God was never strongly condemned by the surveyed students of previous decades. What disapproval there was reached a low in 1939, but is now rising.

"Perhaps the most important finding of this study," said its codirectors, Drs. Salomon Rettig and Benjamin Pasamanick, "is the great lack of stability of many moral values" and their apparent change with economic and political changes.

They note that 1939 students represent the parents of today's undergraduates - yet the responses of both groups differ.

"Either parents aren't getting across their values to their children or the parents have changed, too," said Dr. Pasamanick.

The two researchers are interested, too, in the conflicting moral judgments represented in the student replies.

"The least we can do is point them out," they said, "and make people think about them."

Their findings were drawn from anonymous responses to a 50-item questionnaire by nearly 500 undergraduates - 204 men and 285 women.

Student ratings of moral acts or specified situations, in degree of "rightness or wrongness," were then compared with studies of three previous decades at other Midwestern schools.

Students of all the decades surveyed, with the exception of a 1939 study, regard kidnapping and hit-skip driving, respectively, as the two worst moral sins.

Showing the most consistent increase in moral condemnation over the period are suicide and "a doctor allowing a badly deformed baby to die."

The scientists see this as a growing value for the sanctity of individual life.
